Your comments:	I object to this outdated, backwards facing destruction of our epically biodiverse countryside and open space. Away from the various environmental incidents that have already happened at the current site, and away from any aesthetic arguments, this further development of an already ageing, soon-to-be redundant technology needs to be refused by the ERYC. Several bodies, departments and organisations at all levels government have declared a climate emergency. Every day we receive more news on Climate Change and the impact we, as a species, are having upon it. This is an opportunity for the ERYC to make a stand, refuse this application and send a clear and concise message that they aim to create a better future for their current residents and those of future generations.
