Your comments:	The damage to local environment including issues with noise and light pollution are detrimental to both people living in the area and for local wildlife. It is irrelevant if the wildlife is endangered or not. There are no reasons to continue with this type of fuel extraction, any possible short term gains are far exceeded by the damage that will be caused and the long term results could be catastrophic for the local water supply and all the surrounding towns / villages. At a time when concerns over the environment and climate change are so high and the threat very real it would be irresponsible to allow this application to continue.
