Your comments:	We are in a climate crisis and must move away from oil and gas. This is not 'clean' energy. There's so much evidence to counter any greenwashing. Drilling for oil and gas is a bad idea and will have long-term, wide-reaching negative impacts on biodiversity and the health of the biosphere in general. I'm so fed up with government and council lip service saying they recognise the climate emergency and yet acting in the complete opposite manner. I'm fed up with massive corporations destroying our home for profit. I'm fed up with this short sighted, greenwashing nonsense. Nature won't pay attention to it, you can tell everyone this is 'good for the planet' but when the earthquakes come, when the water is contaminated so we can't drink it, when the land is decimated so nothing grows and you try to simply pretend it's nothing to do with your practise, the truth will not be so easy to hide. More people will rise up against this, no matter the 'laws', because this is literally a matter of life and death. I choose life and object to oil and gas drilling, including Fracking. These practises are massive contributors to the current climate crisis and the Holocene period.
